Virtual Meetings
Welcome everyone to the first fully virtual conference of the MSS! We so appreciate your participation and engagement in sessions, meetings, social events and MSS traditions (translated for on-line).

The theme of this year’s conference, “Precarity and Inequality: Covid-19, Neoliberalism and the Future of Faculty,” reflects both past, present and future. That is, we’ll examine the key issues that were connected to last year’s theme (sustainability of our programs and our discipline), our current status (current trends reflecting challenges to our discipline as a key part of academic programs) and our future (what are our next, self-sponsored, reconfigurations of sociology). We acknowledge and respect this timeline for what we have been, are, and will be through the plenaries, the sessions and discussions, and through virtual interactions to maintain our shared focus and mission, inside or outside of the academy.

Unique this year is the inclusion of pre-conference workshops that allow more time for investigation than our standard program times offer. Note that Wednesday, March 17, includes workshops reflecting our long-standing relationship with AKD. Also, we offer two workshops that provide practical advice for existing applied work and programs (“Analyzing Change in Applied Work and the Classroom: A Workshop to Introduce Ripple Effect Mapping” on Wednesday at 9:00 a.m. CST) and for creating applied concentrations in academic structures (“Accrediting your Undergraduate or Graduate Program in Sociological Practice: A Workshop on Process, Benefits, and Outcomes” on Wednesday at 1:00 p.m. CST).

Of course, please attend to the plenary sessions focusing on future trends (“The Post-Pandemic College” on Thursday at noon CST), and the future of faculty (“Inextricably Linked: Academic Freedom, Tenure and Shared Governance Before, During and After COVID-19” on Friday at 1:00 p.m. CST). Also, in our long-standing partnership with the Society for the Study of Symbolic Interaction, we present the Peter Hall Lecture focusing on issues of social precarity (“The Color Line: Challenges for Civil Society” on Saturday at 3:30 p.m. CST).

Hey, because it’s on-line doesn’t mean that we mean to neglect our social opportunities! We hope you’ve reserved tickets to spend an evening with MSS by joining us for reconfigurations of the Iowa Food Tour (thanks to the local organizing committee!) and a virtual Trivia Night. Everyone can toast to MSS at the President’s reception and virtual happy hour (with mixologists on Friday 6:00 p.m. CST), and join together at the Ice Cream Social after celebrating our 2021 awardees (ok, you have to provide/scoop your own ice cream this year...BUT we have a panel of past presidents following the awards ceremony on Saturday at noon CST).

We’re so happy to have you here to engage in this new format to promote the work of our scholars, our committees, our leadership, and all of the elements that make MSS who we are. Thank you and enjoy the conference!

The MSS Gender and Sexuality Studies Certificate is a certification program organized by the MSS Women in the Profession committee. The program provides a structure for you to focus your conference participation around issues related to, or that impact, gender, and sexuality. By completing the certification process you will be able to document and will be recognized for the following outcomes:

1. Participants will be able to analyze in their reflective statement how concepts of gender and sexuality are created, maintained, and/or challenged through embodiment, cultural representations, and/or social organization.

2. Participants will be able to analyze in their reflective statement how identities associated with gender and sexuality intersect with other identities (e.g., race, class, ability) to situate individuals within interlocking systems of power (e.g., sexism, classism, heterosexism, racism) and how these intersections shape identities, social interaction, cultural artifacts, and social structures.

3. Participants will be able to connect and apply the concepts of gender and sexuality to their own life and academic work.

For more information about this certificate, contact Kristi Brownfield (Kristi.brownfield@northern.edu) or see the complete criteria and submission information in the online meeting under “Certificates.”

*******

The MSS Certificate of Race, Ethnicity, and Inequality is a certification program organized by the Minority Scholars Committee of MSS. This program provides a structure for you to focus your conference participation around issues of racial and ethnic inequality — how it is produced, reproduced and resisted through individual efforts and institutional structures. By completing the certification process you will be able to document and will be recognized for your participation in sessions focused on race, ethnicity, intersectionality and inequality.

In order for you to receive the MSS Certificate of Race, Ethnicity, and Inequality, you need to attend a minimum of 7 virtual sessions and write a brief reflection on your learning (1-3 pages that includes elements of the sessions attended). You can find multiple qualifying sessions in many time slots demonstrating the importance of this theme throughout the conference.

For more information about this certificate, contact Minority Scholars Committee Chair, Regina Dixon-Reeves (Rdixonre@uchicago.edu) or see the complete criteria and submission information in the online meeting under “Certificates.”

Master Program

Wednesday, 17 March 2021

Session 1 | Wednesday 9:00 AM-12:00 PM | Virtual Room 2

AKD PRECONFERENCE PROGRAMMING - GRADUATE STUDENT TEACHING DEVELOPMENT AND CERTIFICATION [WORKSHOP SYNCHRONOUS/LIVE SESSION]

Presiders: Frankie S. Frank, University of Wisconsin-Madison; Daphne Pedersen, University of North Dakota

This pre-conference is sponsored by Alpha Kappa Delta (AKD), the International Sociology Honors Society. Our teaching sessions have regularly focused on the multitude of sociology educators across collegiate and high school levels along with tenured faculty and teaching staff.

Graduate students can attend this pre-conference program and earn an AKD Teaching Development certificate. Attendees must write a reflection on their experience and their takeaways from the preconference to receive certification. There is no additional cost to attend the Graduate Student Teaching Development Workshop, or to participate in the Certification program.

Session 2 | Wednesday 9:00 AM-12:00 PM | Virtual Room 1

ANALYZING CHANGE IN APPLIED WORK AND THE CLASSROOM: A WORKSHOP TO INTRODUCE RIPPLE EFFECT MAPPING [THEMATIC WORKSHOP SYNCHRONOUS/LIVE SESSION]

- Facilitator......Mary Emery, South Dakota State University

Ripple Effect Mapping (REM) has rapidly become a standard evaluation tool, yet the tool also provides applied Sociologists with a great strategy for the classroom. Based on principles of social constructivism, Appreciative Inquiry, collaborative inquiry, radiant thinking, and reflexivity, the tool also makes use of the Community Capitals as a framework for the mapping process. While three versions of REM are currently in use, the workshop will focus on the “Web Mapping Approach,” which asks the question, “How are things different?” REM addresses the challenge we all face in identifying the outcomes and long-term impacts of an intervention, particularly when the evaluation addresses complexity in both the technical and networking realms. Faculty can use the same process to engage students in considering the impact of their applied sociological work or in studying social facts and trends in the classroom.

The workshop will provide an overview of the process, an opportunity to try the mapping, and discussion on analyzing the results. Participants can reference the online Field Guide Ripple Effect Mapping at https://conservancy.umn.edu/handle/11299/190639
Session 3 | Wednesday 9:30 AM-10:15 AM | Virtual Room 2 – AKD Preconference

AKD PRECONFERENCE WORKSHOP 1: FINDING OUT WHERE AND HOW YOUR COURSE FITS [Workshop Synchronous/Live Session]

- Facilitator: Jeff Chin, Le Moyne College
- Facilitator: Daphne Pedersen, University of North Dakota

Session 4 | Wednesday 10:20 AM-11:00 AM | Virtual Room 2 – AKD Preconference

AKD PRECONFERENCE WORKSHOP 2: CREATING YOUR SYLLABUS (ALIGNED TO YOUR STYLE!) [Workshop Synchronous/Live Session]

- Facilitator: Frankie S. Frank, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Session 5 | Wednesday 11:05 AM-11:30 AM | Virtual Room 2 – AKD Preconference

AKD PRECONFERENCE WORKSHOP 3: SOCIAL MEDIA AND TEACHING WEBSITES [Workshop Synchronous/Live Session]

- Facilitator: Barbara Prince, Lebanon Valley College
- Facilitator: Michele Lee Kozimor-King, Elizabethtown College

Session 6 | Wednesday 1:00 PM-3:00 PM | Virtual Room 1

ACCREDITING YOUR UNDERGRADUATE OR GRADUATE PROGRAM IN SOCIOLOGICAL PRACTICE: A WORKSHOP ON PROCESS, BENEFITS, AND OUTCOMES BY THE COMMISSION ON THE ACCREDITATION OF PROGRAMS IN APPLIED AND CLINICAL SOCIOLOGY (CAPACS) [Thematic Workshop Synchronous/Live Session]

- Facilitator: Michael Fleischer, Commission on the Accreditation of Programs in Applied and Clinical Sociology (CAPACS)
- Facilitator: Norma Winston, Commission on the Accreditation of Programs in Applied and Clinical Sociology (CAPACS)
- Facilitator: Elizabeth Lyman, Radford University
- Facilitator: Allison Wisecup, Radford University

Professionalizing Sociology begins with the accreditation of a program in sociological practice (applied sociology, clinical sociology, engaged public sociology, translational sociology, and forensic sociology) by the Commission on the Accreditation of Programs in Applied and Clinical Sociology or CAPACS. Graduates of CAPACS-accredited programs complete a carefully designed curriculum, ensuring employers that they possess a full spectrum of knowledge, skills, and practice experiences that distinguish them from other job applicants. Creating a highly educated and trained pool of sociological practitioners furthers Sociology's professionalization, as these individuals possess educational qualifications, training, and field experiences to support their acquisition of association credentials in interdisciplinary fields such as behavioral health care, social service administration, criminal justice, forensic counseling, and public policy research

SOCIAL AND CULTURAL IMPACT OF THE PANDEMIC [DISCUSSION FORUM SYNCHRONOUS/LIVE SESSION]

- Facilitator.....Rebecca Rodriguez-Carey, Emporia State University
- Facilitator.....Jan Todd, Emporia State University
- Facilitator.....Rochelle Rowley, Emporia State University

The social impact of the pandemic is vast. The operations and services of the institutions that shape and affect our economy, education, family, and home lives have all been impacted. This also includes correctional facilities, health care, recreational activities, and social services agencies whose impacts are both evident and remain to be seen. Despite this, the impact of the pandemic has played out in different ways for different groups of people. More specifically, the social and cultural behaviors connected to societal responses to the pandemic contain mixed outcomes for institutions, both negatively and positively. In this discussion, we will engage in conversation around both the challenges and benefits experienced in response to these social and cultural behavior adaptations.

INCORPORATING LEGAL STUDIES INTO UNDERGRADUATE SOCIOLOGY COURSES [WORKSHOP SYNCHRONOUS/LIVE SESSION]

Alpha Kappa Delta Session

- Facilitator......Frankie S. Frank, University of Wisconsin-Madison

Legal studies is an interdisciplinary and growing field, but what is Sociology's place in all of this? Why are legal studies so central to sociology and how can instructors (A) incorporate legal studies into their courses and/or (B) teach legal studies in an approachable way to undergraduate students? In this workshop, we will discuss teaching tactics within legal studies education, with a focus on disparate impact issues and sociolegal discourse on sexuality, gender, race, disability, and socioeconomic class.

PUBLISHING IN TEACHING SOCIOLOGY [WORKSHOP SYNCHRONOUS/LIVE SESSION]

Alpha Kappa Delta Session

- Facilitator......Michele Lee Kozimor-King, Elizabethtown College
- Facilitator......Barbara Prince, Lebanon Valley College

Are you currently (or considering) using innovative activities or pedagogy in the classroom? Have you thought about presenting such innovations at conferences or publishing the results of your assessments? Do you want to learn how to contribute to the scholarship of teaching and learning within the discipline of sociology? This session, led by the Editor and Deputy Editor of Teaching Sociology, will provide you with information on one key publication outlet for your work: Teaching Sociology (TS). In this session, we will discuss the mission of TS, the types of submissions accepted at TS, and we work to demystify the publishing process. We will highlight the expectations for submissions and provide opportunities for attendees to talk about their current projects. This session will be especially useful for meeting attendees who are also presenting original work on pedagogy.

Join us for a discussion about teaching at a community or technical college, focusing especially on now to increase engagement by professionals at these institutions in the nine states that make up the MSS and beyond. We would also like to have an open, honest, and relaxed conversation about the challenges and benefits of teaching at two-year institutions, including: Have you ever wondered what it is like to work at a community or technical college? Would you like to share your ideas and challenges with others who currently work in this setting? Are there new challenges with Covid-19 and teaching synchronously and/or fully online? What are the challenges in educating our unique learners at the historical intersection of political unrest and health concerns we currently face?

TEACHING SOCIOLOGY WITH PODCASTS – TWO APPLICATIONS [WORKSHOP SYNCHRONOUS/LIVE SESSION]

- Facilitator......Trenton Ellis, Black Hills State University
- Facilitator......Stephen DiGioia, Black Hills State University
- Facilitator......Joe Brewer, Western Illinois University

Podcasts are such a popular platform that podcast reviews now accompany book and film reviews in the journal, Teaching Sociology. This workshop models two applications of teaching sociology with podcasts. First, two sociology educators from Black Hills State University (SD) demonstrate combining an audio podcast with Google Maps to facilitate virtual field trips for introductory sociology students. Second, a high school sociology educator and Western Illinois University sociology graduate student reviews his original class podcast, The Forgottonia Project, through which students explore history and culture in rural Central Illinois. Come, listen, and explore teaching sociology with podcasts!

SUSTAINING SOCIOLOGY IN AN AGE OF AUSTERITY AND UNCERTAINTY [Thematic DISCUSSION FORUM SYNCHRONOUS/LIVE SESSION]

- Facilitator. Lisa Kort-Butler, University of Nebraska-Lincoln
- Facilitator. Elizabeth Legerski, University of North Dakota

Sociology and social science programs across the Midwest region seem to be routinely on the proverbial “chopping block” with justifications of tight budgets and uncertain funding streams. This happens at institutions of all types and sizes. Combine this with the reality that the college-age population will decline over the next decade, and these challenges are likely to persist for some time. Join us for facilitated conversation about what faculty and departments are doing to resist—and even thrive—in such environments. The conversation is an opportunity to learn about what strategies have been successful and what approaches we can use in planning for the future.

2020-21 MSS-sponsored MFP Fellow Announced

Each year, MSS sponsors a Minority Fellowship Program (MFP) Fellow with the American Sociological Association. Join us in welcoming the 2020-21 Fellow, Caty Taborda.

Caty is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Sociology at University of Minnesota. She earned her BA from Hamilton College and her MA in Sociology and Women's and Gender Studies from Brandeis University. Her research interests include sociology of health and illness, medical markets, the body, and morality. Taborda’s dissertation uses the plasma pharmaceutical industry as a case study to analyze how medical markets shape, and are shaped by, cultural and moral beliefs about the body. She draws on interviews and fieldwork to analyze how people come to understand the social, economic, and moral worth of their bodies, and to show how such constructions of worth help to maintain broader social inequalities. In addition to her dissertation, Taborda is currently working on two collaborative national research projects, one analyzing how people make sense of medical enhancements, and another on religious narratives about alternative medicine. Through her previous work at a large nonprofit health care system, Taborda examined the boundary-making processes of innovative healthcare workers and, in a co-authored manuscript in the Journal of Interprofessional Care, she shows how these same workers navigate the emotional exhaustion of professional care work. Her research has been supported by the Ford Foundation and various fellowships from the University of Minnesota. (Source: asanet.org)

DEPARTMENT OF SOCIOLOGY

A Department of the COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

What sets our program apart?

Through the exploration of social and individual dynamics, we prepare our students to enrich social scientific understandings of the complex problems societies face today. Sociology at the University of Minnesota offers a PhD program covering the fundamentals of sociological theory and methods, emphasizing the mastery of central literatures and debates, conduct of research, and teaching and policy application. Students receive funding packages that support them for 5 years and benefit from advanced training through seminars, research and teaching assistantships, and instructorships.

What really sets our sociology community apart is the broad range of issues our faculty and graduate students study. Much of this research, transdisciplinary and transnational in scope, expresses a strong sense of civic engagement and a dedication to addressing the pressing problems of our times.

Our research specialties include:

Demography, Family & Life Course
Inequalities & Culture
Global, Transnational & Comparative Sociology
Law, Crime, Punishment & Human Rights

What are our graduate students doing?

Our PhDs find jobs in education at a wide range of institutions, from research universities in the U.S. and worldwide to small liberal arts colleges. Other alumni hold research positions in government and non-profits. During their time at Minnesota, graduate students transition from consumers of knowledge to producers of knowledge, capable of shaping the world in whatever path they pursue.
